

How West Africa economic partnership deals put the cart before the horse

By Michael E Odijie

in The Conversation Africa

Photo by Victor Kharlashkin on Unsplash

The effect of the economic partnership agreement on Côte d'Ivoire's poultry industry strategy was to close down its regional market as all neighbouring countries replicated the policy. It was thus self-defeating.